

10.0 EFFECTS ON USE AND CONSERVATION OF ENERGY

Expansion of the Colarusso operations will not create a significant increase in demand for energy. Additional diesel fuel will be needed for the haul trucks as a result of the increased hauling distance from the excavation area to the main processing plant. However, the continuation of a local source of construction aggregate will reduce the distance that over-the-road haul trucks will have to travel to supply local demands for the aggregate.